About

As a developer with a passion for great UI/UX, I love creating intuitive and visually appealing experiences. I thrive in collaborative environments, where I enjoy supporting my team and believe in the value of sharing knowledge. I'm always open to feedback and excited about working on products that inspire me. My goal is to deliver high-quality solutions that make a real impact.

Professional experience

At my last company, I contributed to improving an equity management platform by streamlining user workflows, particularly in document handling, templates, and account configurations. I worked on both front-end and back-end development, ensuring smooth user experiences and proper data management. Our team played a key role in delivering important features and creating efficient demo flows for potential clients, making the platform both powerful and user-friendly.
