About

As a developer with a strong sensibility for UI/UX, I am dedicated to creating intuitive and visually appealing user experiences. I thrive in collaborative environments, where I enjoy helping my team and believe in the power of knowledge sharing. Open to feedback and passionate about developing products that resonate with me, I am committed to delivering high-quality solutions.

Professional experience

At my last company, I contributed to enhancing an equity management platform by automating and improving user workflows, particularly in document handling, templating, and account configurations. While primarily focused on front-end development, I also worked on backend tasks to ensure proper data management. My team played a key role in delivering important features and creating efficient demo flows for potential clients.
